HELL
GEOLOGICAL SITE

...millions of years in the making

Administered by the Tourism Attraction Board

GEOLOGY:

Located in the district of West Bay, Grand Cayman, Hell is a unique geological wonder of rugged blackened limestone. The jagged formations are a result of millions of years of geological evolution, due to acid rain and consumption of the rock by carbonate-loving organisms. This erosion has left an eerie and desolate looking landscape earning this location its highly appropriate name. The rocks are estimated to be 10 to 15 million years old.

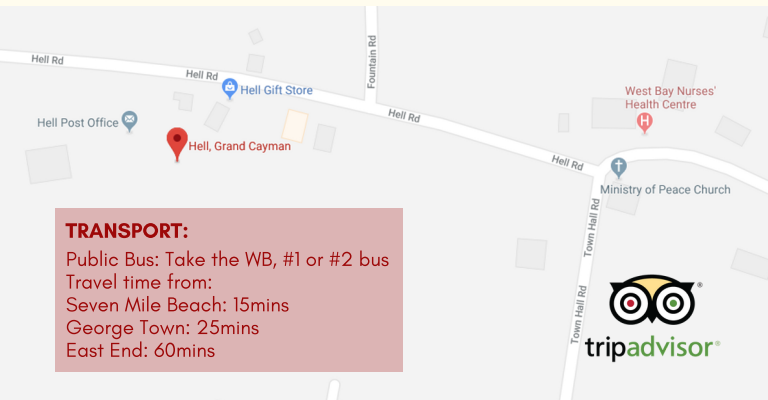

GIFT SHOPS:

Several shops are clustered near the official Hell Post Office and feature an assortment of post cards, t-shirts with hellish inscriptions, locally made jewelry, crafts, 'Hell' hot sauces, conch shells and more!

POST OFFICE:

A postcard mailed from the Hell Post Office is a unique way to share a memorable visit to this geological attraction. Visitors have been flocking to Hell for decades, for bragging rights that they have "been to Hell and back".
